十、閱讀測驗(每格 2 分，共 6 分)

Checking your smartphone all the time can be a problem. It can cause you to waste time and have neck and eye problems. What can people do if they use their phones too much? It can be difficult to break a bad habit like this. Fortunately, though, technology offers some help in the form of apps.

One app that helps people stop looking at their smartphones too much is called Moment. It keeps track of how often a person uses his or her phone and shows that information. This is important because learning about one's behavior is a big step towards stopping a bad habit. The app also lets people limit the amount of time they use their phones. Once that time limit is reached, people can't use their phone anymore for that day.

Another interesting app is called Brain.fm. It encourages people to listen to music instead of playing games or checking their email frequently on their smartphones. It has different types of music to put people in relaxing moods. People who use apps like Moment and Brain.fm accept they need help, which is important. If people continue to deny they have a problem, they might never change. In such a case, they would likely continue to waste too much time using their cellphones.

53. () What's the article mainly about?
(A) Some effective ways of creating useful apps. (B) How to find special apps on the smartphone.
(C) Apps that can help people break a bad habit. (D) A few apps that help people relax and calm down.
54. () Which is one of the functions of "Moment" mentioned in this article?
(A) It encourages people to listen to music instead of playing games.
(B) It helps people limit the amount of time they can use their smartphones.
(C) It provides various meaningful games for people to choose from.
(D) It protects the information in people's smartphones from being stolen.
55. () What can we learn from this article?
(A) The sales of smartphones have been on the increase all over the world.
(B) There are many new apps which can help people live a convenient life.
(C) People usually throw away their smartphones after using them for one year.
(D) Only when people admit that they use their phones too much will they begin to change.
