Passage 1

Imagine enjoying fresh fruit from your own tree without doing any of the work. Fruit tree adoption makes this possible and brings people closer to __31__. By paying a small fee, people can adopt a fruit tree growing in a farmer's orchard. Farmers take care of the tree—watering, pruning, and making sure it grows well. __32__, adopters receive updates on the tree and get fresh, seasonal fruit at harvest time.

This program is more than just a way to get food. It helps __33__ city people with rural farmers. Adopters feel closer to nature and learn where their food comes from. Farmers benefit as well, __34__ support and stable income. This is important because fruit prices can be unstable, especially after heavy rain or typhoons.

A good example comes from the Maibagah tribe in Miaoli. A strong typhoon caused serious damage to their homes and farms. To __35__, they started a plum tree adoption program. The money helps them rebuild houses, support farming, and protect their land for the future. Through fruit tree adoption, people and nature grow together.

Passage 2

Aphasia occurs when a person's brain gets damaged, usually from a stroke, head injury, or brain infection. This condition changes how people use language. Specifically, __36__ have aphasia may struggle to speak, read, write, or understand what others are saying. However, it does not affect their intelligence.

There are two main types of aphasia. The first is Wernicke's aphasia, which happens when a __37__ of the left side of the brain is hurt. People with this type often speak smoothly. __38__ this, their sentences can be confusing or hard to follow. They might choose the wrong words or even make up new ones without realizing it.

The second type is Broca's aphasia. People with this condition usually understand language well, but their __39__ comes out slowly and sounds broken. They often pause between words and leave out small function words like "is" or "the."

While Wernicke's aphasia and Broca's aphasia cause different language problems, they both __40__ something __40__: with early therapy, regular practice, and the right support, people can improve over time.

Passage 3

Have you heard the story of the Trojan War? Long ago, the Greeks fought the Trojans outside the city of Troy. However, they were unable to break through the walls of the city for years. To prevent more losses, the Greeks __41__ another approach.

They built a huge wooden horse near the shore, which looked like a peace offering. The Greek army sailed away and left the horse behind, __42__ the war had ended. Believing this, the Trojans pulled the horse into their city and celebrated with delight.

__43__, Greek soldiers were hidden inside the horse, waiting patiently to strike. When night fell and the city slept, they climbed out and opened the gates to let their waiting army in. The attack moved fast and __44__ the Trojans __44__, leading to the sudden fall of Troy.

This trick won the war and changed history. It also gave birth to the term "Trojan horse," which means something that looks harmless but hides a(n) __45__.
